SECTION 2: ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

CURRICULUM AND INSTRUCTION
Plan for Teacher Curriculum Development	The remote and hybrid schedule have time built into them for curriculum reflection and planning. At the beginning of the school year and on a weekly basis through the first semester, faculty will be asked to reflect and plan together: within and between departments We will modify and use our existing Educational Improvement Plan regarding the student experience of learning. The following goals of the improvement plan will be tailored to the current need for flexibility and adaptability in the midst of challenging circumstances: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li style="padding-left: 40px;">Articulate and implement a trans-disciplinary curriculum that is aligned with the mission and ISOs <li style="padding-left: 40px;">Articulate and implement an effective and aligned disciplinary curriculum that is relevant and responsive to the needs of students
Beginning of Year Assessment Plan
Grading Expectations and/or Policies	In general, we will be following our existing grading policies and expectations. https://www.marisths.org/uploads/3/8/1/6/3816576/2019.20_family_and_student_handbook.pdf We will review carefully and modify the grading expectations in our existing remote learning protocol. https://drive.google.com/file/d/1PqTOJJ0vHWGGQRK3DQ7QxiJ1n9zYZb-T/view?usp=sharing We will emphasize the need for flexibility and understanding. We will also use these circumstances as an opportunity for teachers to examine and reflect on practices that align assessments and evaluation with student understanding as defined in our EIP.

Asynchronous and Synchronous Teaching Expectations	Our Hybrid schedule and learning plan emphasize the need to deliver a parallel experience for students who are unable to be on campus. Professional development sessions will be offered before the school year begins and throughout the first semester to help teachers build a better understanding of both synchronous and asynchronous learning, best practices for operating in each, and how best to leverage each to create a meaningful learning encounter for students.
Plan to Mitigate Learning Loss	Beginning of year department meetings will conduct course audits addressing the following questions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What is our discipline all about and how can we make this meaningful and relevant to our students? How can our discipline HELP our students make sense and meaning of the world in this time of uncertainty? • What methods, strategies, and assignments do we typically use that are probably not a good use of student time because they are heavily reliant on teacher knowledge and supervision for success • What essential skills will the students need to acquire by the end of the year and what are the most reliable indicators that they have acquired those skills? • What's the baseline that students need to know, understand, and be able to do for us to be confident that they have met our most fundamental goals? • How will we, as a department, all use Marist learning principles and integral student outcomes in our planning? • What is the most essential work in each unit? This qtr? This semester? • What practices, assignments, and assessments can we streamline or prune altogether? Is there anything we can make optional? • What lessons can we collaborate to build together? How might we divide the instructional load and share what we

	create (screencasts, notes, adapted assignments and assessments, etc.)?
Systems of Support for Diverse Learners and/or English Language Learners	Student Services During Remote Learning: https://www.marisths.org/uploads/3/8/1/6/3/816576/student_services_during_remote_learning.pdf
Plan for Students Unable to Attend School	Hybrid schedule emphasizes the need to deliver a parallel experience for students who are unable to be on campus.
Professional Development Plan for Teachers	Beginning the third week of August, voluntary professional development will be offered to teachers both on campus and remotely. These sessions will combine self-guided materials, educator-led sessions, and moderated forums. During Inservice week teachers will be asked to participate in a number of sessions regarding teaching in a hybrid format, building classroom community, and leveraging synchronous and asynchronous learning to create meaningful learning for students in less than ideal circumstances. Professional development time will be set aside throughout the first semester for topics that staff raise and prioritize. May include but not limited to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Assessment ● Rethinking and re-planning curriculum ● How to "flip" my classroom ● Student engagement strategies and practices ● Blending synchronous and asynchronous learning ● Maximizing the use of existing technology (iPad, Zoom and Schoology) ● Creating and maintaining classroom community and student well-being ● Supporting struggling students ● Maintaining professional and personal balance and well-being Additionally, administration will plan professional development addressing the following goal of our existing Educational Improvement Plan

	Implement core-instructional and assessment practices that are highly effective in leading students to learning and understanding that is transferred to new and unfamiliar situations
Plan for Specialists Classes (i.e. Art, Music, Language, etc.)	Sculpture and Music courses will require modifications. The teachers of those courses will develop approaches that modify curriculum and instruction in a manner that follows guidelines set by CDC, OHA, and ODE. In the event that a course cannot be conducted safely within those guidelines, we will need to either create a new course for those students or open a new section of an existing course that does meet the guidelines.

MENTAL HEALTH AND SOCIAL EMOTIONAL LEARNING

Plan to Support SEL at the Start of the School Year	The Marist Remote Learning Plan’s goals and principles are built upon an operating assumption that social-emotional learning and academics are not separate from each other but are necessarily complementary. Those elements of the plan that highlight social emotional learning will be highlighted and examined during inservice week and emphasized repeatedly in administrative and counselor communication. These circumstances will also invite us to examine our newly refined “healthy and balanced” integral student outcome (LINK) and explore ways to meaningfully and intentionally incorporate those elements into and throughout our academic and co-curricular offerings.
Family Support and Training Plan	Families will be able to access the two Peace Health counselors assigned to Marist. Families may contact the Campus Ministry Department for pastoral care: https://www.marisths.org/spiritual-guidance-and-pastoral-care.html The Counseling Department is also resource in connecting families with outside counseling and other services. https://www.marisths.org/counseling-department.html Counselor Contact Information: https://www.marisths.org/counseling.html

MISSION AND CATHOLIC IDENTITY
	Hybrid Model or 100% Distance Learning
Schoolwide Eucharistic Celebrations	HYBRID: In-person Mass will be held according to the usual school schedule, approximately once a month. Students will attend by cohort according to cohort size regulations and appropriate distancing. On a case by case basis: some liturgies may be held multiple times in order to enable attendance by all; some liturgies may be offered once, for a specific cohort, in which case non-attending may or will attend virtually, or will not be required to attend; some liturgies may be optional, allowing students to self-select for their participation. For a current schedule of Masses, see the school calendar (https://www.marisths.org/calendar.html) 100% DISTANCE LEARNING: In a 100% distance learning environment, all liturgies and prayer will be offered remotely as well.
